THE DAYS DOINGS ON THE STOCK EXCHANGE

A generally stronger tone was noted in the trading on the stock exchange yesterday with more of the securities that has frequently characterized the last few weeks eliminated. Sugar advanced three-eighths, the increase probably heralding further increases. The bullish influence was missing and good reports have come in from the plantations.

Twenty shares of McBryde selling on change noted a decrease of an eighth and Olan also dropped the same fraction of a point on off board trading. Wahiua also moved at a half-point's decrease.

In the bonds two blocks of O. R. & L. 5s were transferred at 102, twenty-five cents less than the last selling quotations, while a block of Kauai 6s changed hands at the prevailing figure, both sales being made off board.

The sales for the day were:
Wahiua—10 @ 149.
Wahiua—20 @ 139.
Olan—210 @ 6.25.
Oahu Sugar—100 @ 30.625; 15 @ 31.
Ewa—15 @ 33.625; 45 @ 33.625.
McBryde—10 @ 6; 10 @ 6.
Bonds.
Kauai 6s—$100 @ 100.
O. R. & L. 5s—$1500 @ 102; $2500 @ 102.

NEARLY ONE HUNDRED BOOKED FOR KAUAI

The crowd is getting ready for the grand trip around the Island of Kauai which begins at the Inter-Island wharf at nine o'clock next Saturday night.

Ten dollars for the trip, except for that overland drive from Nawiliwili to Hanalei which is a side trip in the itinerary. The steamship company has sent several excursions to Hilo and the volcano, the last being a greater success than the preceding one. This Kauai affair is a new one taking the people into a practically unexplored region, or at least, into a section of the Garden Island seldom visited by persons from the other Islands and even the residents of Kauai. It is expected that there will be several passengers from the Island of Hawaii. The Mauna Kea will arrive here Saturday morning and they will have time to attend to business during the day and after their return from Kauai Monday morning.

There is much to be seen on Kauai in the way of scenery, and the great dam at Wainiha, storing the water which furnishes the power for the Kauai electric works, is in itself something worth while. Parties who go to Hanalei by the steamer may go to the dam, a ride of six miles by horse, and will be in time to take the steamer after lunch and proceed to the palm side of the island. The fare, including all steamer service, is ten dollars. Book before it is too late.

RENAULT 1910 MODELS

Three entirely new models is the important feature of Renault production for 1910.

That the models already known remain practically unchanged, is also of considerable importance.

It gives evidence of the perfect construction of Renault cars of the past, which must be a matter of keen satisfaction to our old patrons, and furnishes assurance to the new buyer that his car has proven itself by the test of time.

The different styles described here have been designed according to the same standards that have proved so successful in the past.

Briefly, the three entirely new types are:

A 10-12 H. P. Chassis with miniature four-cylinder motor, having 2 1/2-inch bore by 4 1/2-inch stroke; cylinders are cast in bloc. This motor is particularly designed for a small town car.

An 18-24 H. P. Chassis, with a new six-cylinder motor, 3 1/2-inch bore by 4 1/2-inch stroke. These cylinders are cast in triplets to keep the size of the motor of classy proportions.

This motor, owing to its smoothness of running, the beauty of its lines, and general appearance, enhanced by the frame, hanging very low, and a new system of suspension, will be the ideal car for town use and light touring.

A 25-35 H. P. Chassis with a new four-cylinder, long-stroke motor—4 1/2-inch bore by 6 1/2-inch stroke. We have given this model the name of "American Special," because it is the first car Special Throughout that has ever been built by a foreign manufacturer for American roads.

It is the result of a long and careful study by Mons. Louis Renault of the road conditions as they exist throughout the country districts of the States. A special construction has been employed to give adequate service over the very roughest of these roads.

The question of clearance has particularly been provided for. A straight front axle gives over 10 inches clearance at the lowest point, notwithstanding the fact that the frame is hung low, thus retaining the classy lines of our other types.

The long-stroke motor has always been a feature of our engines, but in this new motor we have gone still further in that direction to insure an unusually powerful engine embodying simplicity and silence that will surmount heavy gradients with the motor turning slowly.

This feature will be especially appreciated when the car is used in town, as the high gear can be used at a very low rate of speed. This long piston stroke also permits of quick "picking-up" of the motor in passing through heavy traffic. We have found that practically any hill can be negotiated on top speed, without a long start, while this engine will develop a speed of 55 to 60 miles per hour on the level.

This motor is offered as an appreciation of the wide patronage we have enjoyed in this country. We have also made special concessions in the matter of price, which will surely appeal to a great number of the touring public.
